Solidifi parent ranks as Deloitte fast-growing company

Toronto, Canada-based Real Matters Inc., a provider of real estate property insights to the North American mortgage and property and casualty (P&C) insurance industries, and the parent of Chicago-based Solidifi, a full-fee appraisal-management services provider, was ranked seventh on the Technology Fast 500, Deloitte's ranking of the 500 fastest-growing technology, media, telecommunications, life sciences and clean technology companies in North America.

Rankings are based on percentage of fiscal-year revenue growth during the previous five years. Real Matters grew 28,265 percent during that period. The ranking positions the organization as North America's fastest-growing financial services-focused software firm and fourth-fastest-growing software firm, according to Deloitte.

Jason Smith, Real Matters' president and chief executive officer, credited his organization's growth to its cloud-based network platform, redihive™; partnerships with more than 18,000 North American appraisers; and smart, dedicated employee base.

"Real Matters and all the Technology Fast 500 winners in 2011 have shown remarkable drive for creativity and innovation, and of course growth, particularly when you look at their accomplishments in the context of current economic challenges," said Richard Lee, national leader, Technology Media and Telecommunications Industry Group, Deloitte Canada. "Deloitte congratulates Real Matters for this significant achievement."
